St. James Cathedral. In 1803 a little frame church was erected where the cathedral now stands. This was rebuilt in 1818 and later destroyed by fire. Since its reconstruction in 1831, when it became a cathedral, it burnt down twice. The present edifice was built during the years 1850 to 1853, at a cost of $223,000. It is 198 feet long, with a spire towering 310 feet above the street.
